Dear Students, Parents, and Guardians,

I believe that schools should be welcoming environments where students feel supported and look forward to attending. Students' positive behavior should receive encouragement, and our goal should be to keep students in school and learning as much as possible.

In the past, our discipline policy did not make all students feel welcome or supported. Discipline was handed out too quickly at times, and too many students were suspended, often for up to 10 days at a time.

While student misbehavior needs to be addressed, especially serious incidents involving violence, our focus needs to remain on creating positive school cultures that keep kids in school.

This Guide to Student Rights and Responsibilities is our effort to emphasize that focus. We created this code of conduct with feedback from students, parents, teachers, and school leaders. We are learning from our mistakes in the past and planning for a more successful future.

My hope is that the rights and responsibilities outlined in this code of conduct will significantly reduce the number of situations where we need to resort to consequences. I ask for your help in this work—our students bring to school many habits they learn at home. Please reinforce positive habits.

If you believe your student is receiving a consequence that is different from what is included in this guide or that your school does not have a positive learning environment, I encourage you to talk with your Family and Operations Coordinator and, if needed, your school leader. Changing our school cultures will take time, but it is a necessary and important change.

Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,
Katrina T. McCombs
Acting State Superintendent

Code of Conduct: Infractions and Consequences

When a student makes a choice that impacts the learning community, consequences that reflect the severity of the infraction may be assigned. All consequences should balance the District's goals of minimizing school disruptions and maximizing each student's learning time.

When appropriate, discipline will be progressive. This means that a student's first infraction will usually have a consequence of a lesser degree than repeated infractions. However, in cases where a student's conduct is dangerous or threatens the safety of others, a more severe form of discipline may be used. Review the chart below, and on the following page, to understand the four tiers of infractions, and recommended consequences for each.

Tier	Infraction Examples	Recommended Approaches
Tier 1 Infractions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Tardy to class • Uniform violation • Unauthorized use of a cell phone or other electronic device • Talking out of turn in class • Speaking to a school community member or guest with disrespect • Excessive noise in the hallway • Missing class materials • Using profane or offensive language • Making profane or lewd gestures 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Verbal correction, reminders and/or redirection • Provide class/area wide redirection to the entire class • Provide praise to other students in the area • Re-teach or review expected behavior • Loaner uniform provided • Confiscation of the electronic device where applicable • 30 minutes of classroom community service (not during student's instructional time) • Written reflection or apology • Seat change • In-class time out • Loss of classroom privileges • Parent phone call • Lunch or after-school detention

² Trespassing is defined as: 1) breaking into school after school hours; 2) a student going to a campus that is not his/her school of record without permission. Students may not be cited for trespassing if they are attending their school during school hours.

More Information

Here is some more information about a few important policies

Attendance

The best way for each student to make the most of his/her education is to be present and on time every day. Parents and guardians should notify the school as soon as possible if their children need to be absent for an excused reason (such as illness or a family emergency). Notes from parents/guardians will be accepted for up to 15 days after the absence. Doctors' notes will be accepted at any time.

School administrators will make an effort to be in contact with families of absent students to find out why the student was absent, and what supports the student needs when s/he returns to school.

Attendance officers will visit families with students who have unexcused absences:

- After one unexcused absence, the school will call the student's family.
- After three unexcused absences, an attendance officer will visit the family to see what supports the student needs in order to return to school.
- After five unexcused absences, the attendance officer will visit again, and bring an official letter to notify the family of the student's excessive absences.
- After eight unexcused absences, the attendance officer will visit a third time, and bring a second official letter to notify the family of the student's excessive absences.
- After ten unexcused absences, the student is considered truant. New Jersey state law requires that the District refer the student and his/her parents or guardians to court once a student is considered truant. You can avoid this by communicating with the school about absences as soon as possible, and providing notes when appropriate.

After a student has earned three tardies in a semester, every three tardies after that will be counted as one unexcused absence. This means that attendance officers will work with some students who might never have missed a full day of school, but who are often late.

HIB (Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying)

Harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB): Any act (written, verbal, or physical) that seems to take place because of any of the following characteristics: race, color, creed, sex, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, and disability. This act has the effect of physically and/or emotionally harming a student.

If you see HIB, it's important to report it right away. You can report harassment, intimidation, and bullying anonymously through an online form (click on "Report Bullying" on your school's homepage). You can also fill out a paper form. Just visit your school's Main Office to get one. Paper forms can be handed to the Principal or to the school's Anti-Bullying Specialist (listed on each school's website).

More Information

HIB (Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying) (cont'd)

Within 10 days of receiving the report, the school's Anti-Bullying Specialist will complete an investigation. During those 10 days, the Anti-Bullying Specialist will interview everyone with information about the incident to determine whether or not this case counts as HIB. The Superintendent will see the results of the investigation and decide what actions to take.

Five days after the next Board meeting, the District will send a letter with information about the investigation to all parents whose children were involved in the case. The letter will include information about what type of investigation took place, whether or not the District found evidence of HIB, and what was done to address the incident.

Even if the investigation does not find an official HIB violation, school staff will work with all involved students to make sure they feel safe and respected.

Out-of-School Suspensions

"Out-of-school suspension" is defined as any time a student is asked to leave the campus because of an infraction. These suspensions may be for part of a day (e.g. the student is sent home early by a school staff member) or a full day.

A student who contributed to a Tier 3 infraction may be placed on in-school suspension for up to 5 days. If the school does not have an in-school suspension program, the student may be placed on out-of-school suspension for between 1 and 5 days.

A student who contributed to a Tier 4 infraction will be automatically placed on out-of-school suspension for 10 days. A student who has been referred for expulsion may be placed on out-of-school suspension for up to 30 days before the expulsion hearing.

There are no 6-9 day suspensions.

Absolutely all students who have been suspended must be given work to complete so they do not miss important learning time. A student on a short-term suspension (1-5 days) may be given work to complete independently. A student placed on a long-term suspension (10 days or more) must be placed on Administrative Home Instruction. A teacher will work with the student at home to make sure s/he does not fall behind academically.

A student who is being suspended, and his/her parents or guardians, must receive clear information from the Principal about why the suspension is taking place and the expectations for the student's return to school.

More Information

Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities are expected to be respectful, responsible, and safe. Each student's IEP outlines the supports that the student needs in order to meet these expectations. It is important for teachers and school leaders to be familiar with these supports so that they can set students up for success.

A Tier 1 or 2 infraction, or a Tier 3 infraction that does not result in a suspension, may be handled in the same way as it would be for a general education student.

A student with a disability may not receive a long-term suspension unless a Manifestation Determination meeting is held with the Child Study Team and the student's family. For more information, contact the Child Study Team at your school.
